Fashion Show

to help you find your own style

Are you a global modelling phenomenon capable of demanding vast amounts of money in return for gracing the catwalk with your presence? Can you strike a pose that will leave the likes of Kate Moss and Naomi Campbell quaking in their boots? If not, then no need to worry as The Bentall Centre is holding its very own fashion show for men and women at the Centre on Saturday 27 September from 10am - 5pm.

The event, which is providing those who haven't had the chance to witness the celebrated London Fashion Week shows, will be held in connection with the Centre's stores including Austin Reed, Bank Fashion, H&M, Republic, Du Pareil au même and Zara. Ten models will be 'catwalking' their way around each floor of the Centre throughout the day culminating in a mini fashion show at the ground floor promotional area.

Chantelle Znideric, founder of TopStylista, Surrey's leading style consultancy, will be on hand to run through each of the models' looks. Taking into account key fashion elements including style, colours and how to get the best out of your purchases, the fashion show aims to provide visitors to the Centre with a complete guide on what to expect for this season and top tips on how to maximize your shopping spree to suit your budget.

Chantelle will be taking questions from the crowd in an attempt to answer any fashion-related queries you have and get to grips with any fashion faux pas you may have made! In addition to founding TopStylista, Chantelle is a well-known celebrity stylist, personal shopper and fashion writer who provides a luxury style service for women and men in Surrey, Hampshire and London. Chantelle will also be launching a personal shopping service in the Centre aimed at everyone from those who would like a professional stylist's opinion to those who want to cut out those impulse buys.

The Surrey Comet is running an exclusive competition in this week's paper where one lucky winner will have the chance to win a fashion prize package worth £450. All readers have to do is take part in The Bentall Centre's very own 'modelling must-haves' fashion contest.

The Bentall Centre Fashion Show 2008 is set to be an exciting event for the whole family so come down to the Centre between 10am and 5pm on Saturday 27 September to find out what you'll be wearing this season.
